THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM. It would require several columns to expose the platform adopted by the Republicans at Cincinnati on Thursday. As was to be expected, the dying embers of the war, now for eleven years past and gone, have been revived. The fifteenth resolution reads; We sincerely deprecate all sectional feeling and tendencies. We therefore note with deep solicitude that the Demperatic party counts as its chief hope of success upon electoral vote of a united south, secured through efforts of those who were recently arrayed against the nation, and we invoke the earnest attention of the country to the grave truth that a success thus achieved would reopen sectional strife and imperil the national honor and human rights.

What hypocrisy and shallow demagoguery. This resolution is Intended to perpetuate the "sectional feeling and tendencies" which it pretends to "deprecate." Did it not occur to these partisans that if the Democratic party is sectional because it is supported by a united south, that the Republican party is equally as sectional because the only States that it can count on are the northern States? Why is the south united against the Republicaus? Because of their corruptions and usurpa-Hone and persecutions of the southern people. If the Republicans had followed the course dictated not only by magnanimity, but by the higher and truer interestr of the whole nation; if the Republicans had treated us as brethren and not as victims; if General Grant had spent one month of each year at our White Sulphur springs or some other southern watering-place, instead of giving a monopoly to Long Branch-if, in short, he had recognized Tennessee and her sisters of the south as portions of the Union, and had not regarded them simply as outlying provinces to which some vulgar Verres or seedy Piso was to be sent as ruler, that long since all the questions of the war and general polity which now vex the nation would have been solved in the genial atmosphere of friendly and even fraternal feeling. But when we see fraternal feeling. But when we see the Republicans relegating us, as it were, to the custody of slaves, while they sang I re sus to their own grandeur-claiming credit for a philauthropy which consisted in setting free the slaves they sold to the southern people, and taunting us for the southern people, and taunting us for not paying our debts when they had stripped us of the property which was ours when the debt was created, and when they permitted the carpetbagger to rob and plunder the tax-payer, it is a solid vote against the Republicans. It is not sectional bate that induces the not surprising that the south should cast is not sectional hate that induces the south to cast a solid Democratic vote against Radicalism, but because she hates corruption and the usurpations and wrongs which the Radical party has visited upon the south. This appeal to the passions, and this effort to etir up mutiny under smooth phrases of professed friendship, can deceive no one cratic platform: We sincerely deprecate all sectional feeling and tendencies; we therefore note with deep solicitude that the Republican party counts as its chief hope of success upon the united north, secured through the efforts of those whose rascality and corruption have been rehume the bloody deeds of a dead past to distract attention from the putrid corsuption of a living present.

W-H-E-W !- WHAT A FLURRY!

The 4valanche has cessed to wrestle longer engaged in nosing out inconsistencise. But, in huge capitale, it shricks at the comments of the APPEAL on the little squad of politicians who ran the creaking Inderendent machine. On Wednesday the APPEAL intimated that political traitors and mutineers were and loathed by soldiers in camp. The APPEAL further advised the Democratic mutineers;" not to support men who were Radicals in disguise, and to stand by the party-organization. These suggestions have thrown our neighbor into were Radicals in disguise, and to stand gestions have thrown our neighbor into convalsions, and, instead of resorting to hartshorn and Cologue water, he seeks relief by scattering capital letters up and down his editorial columns. In the carvass, two years ago, the Democratic party would not have "tolerated" "traitors and mutineers," and it will not do so in the present election. Party organization is just as essential as military organization. The "rules" of both should No. 357 Front Street, he "rigidly enforced." In the election for county officers, the Democratic party will stand by the nominees, and it will no: "tolerate" "traitors and mutineers," who propose to play into the hands of the Radicals by becoming the candidates of the Radical party. mount qualification to be considered in our next election. Facts are stubborn things, and experience tells us that a fact beyond cavil is that a true Democrat would curse an Independent when he would simply oppose a Radical. The Democrats who thrust themselves forward as Independents have all to lose and nothing to gain. We would impress this upon them, as well for their own good as for the good Sale, Monday, July 3, '76 of the party. It is inconcelvable that a few office-seekers in a great county like Shelby should become traitors and mutineers, and have influence enough to prevent the Democratic party from holding its conventions, nominating its candidates and electing them.
